The University of Economics, Prague supports Belorussian Students

The Presidium of the Academic Senate and management of the University of Economics, Prague have decided to support the students, who are going to be suspended from the economic universities in Belorussia. The University of Economics, Prague offers to Belorussian students in their third year of bachelor's study or higher the possibility to finish their economic education in the „INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS in a Global Context with an Emphasis on Central Europe“ master's programme; this programme is taught in English. Students will be excused from paying the tuition fee of 1 800 Euros each semester. The University of Economics, Prague will provide a two-year scholarship to three students; these scholarships will be used to cover living costs in the Czech Republic. The management of the university will search for external sources of external funding for other eventual applicants.
